Before You Begin

Know Your Purpose:

-If it is to encourage empathy towards and understanding of others, ask players to assume the point of view stated on the card even if (especially if) it is not their own. It's a chance to walk in the shoes of another and discover how you might respond were you faced with the challenge.

-If your goal is to teach others to coach individuals in crisis, you may want to approach the exercise differently. Have participants select Skills & Attitudes that they might suggest for use by the individual in crisis.

-If your mission is crisis prevention, try applying the Skills & Attitudes to the challenges in a proactive manner to see how situations might be preventable.

Such groups might be: healthcare providers and their patients, police officers and immigrants or baby boomers and millennials. Using healthcare for example, bring providers and patients together. Have the providers select challenges from the Healthcare Dilemma deck and patients draw from the Healthcare Professional deck. Have the group pair off (i.e. one healthcare provider and one patient). The pairs are charged with coaching one another to face challenges that may be unfamiliar to them. It is helpful to ask that they assume the point of view on the card in order to encourage empathy and understanding.

Once you know your Purpose and your Participants...begin.

BounceBack is a serious game, a tool that may help build mental toughness by asking people to respond to real world challenges using the Skills & Attitudes of resilience.

The goal is to bring people together to share thoughts and perspectives on how to respond to the many challenges life puts forth. We offer some coaching and game play suggestions, but how you choose to use these cards is really up to you.

Know your Participants:

-Are you coaching an individual in transition? Is the transition specific to a particular issue such as Divorce/Finance or Disability? Select and use those decks that best relate to the transition/s being experienced.

-Are the participants looking to build a broader sense of resilience Skills & Attitudes that relate to their particular vocation? Select from our bundles or choose individual decks that relate best to the needs of the group you are working with.

-Do you have populations that could build resilience through a better understanding of the challenges faced by each?

The Basic Concept:

You're presented with a Challenge Card. Spread the ten Skills & Attitudes cards out so that they can be seen. Read the challenge on the face of your card. Using the ten cards in front of you, select the cards having the Skills & Attitudes you wish to apply in order to manage the challenge at hand. Turn over your Challenge card to see the Skills & Attitudes (indicated by a red* asterisk) that we suggest might be most helpful in managing the situation. Repeat this process, in turn, for each participant. And please, don't forget the discussion. Adapt this basic concept as you will to fit the needs of you and/or your participants.

-Active shooter and Shelter in Place situations are far more common than in the past. Our children are being slaughtered and threatened more than ever before. We can wait for who knows how long for gun control legislation or we act to prepare and protect our children by teaching them the Skills & Attitudes of resilience that just may protect them when threatened and allow them to behave proactively to prevent future threats.

-Use this deck to teach your children strategies that may help them to identify potential threats and respond should those challenges present. Use it in schools to help build resilience among students and their mentors. Connect, communicate and build a proactive school community, better prepared to combat future problems. Use it in college and university classrooms to educate future teachers and college students in the Skills & Attitudes of resilience that may prepare them to respond to threats on campus.

Active Shooter/ Shelter in Place

The school is in lockdown. Mr. Grant has locked the classroom door and turned the lights out. Everyone is crouched against the hallway wall. It occurs to me that my little brother, Chase, is down the hall in another classroom. I hear loud bangs coming from that direction. My heart races and my chest feels tight. I want to scream out for him.

Active Shooter/ Shelter in Place

Jake got fired last week. He's been here 18 years. He's been drinking a bit too much, came to work drunk and had to be escorted out. He made some seriously threatening remarks on his way out. I work the front desk. I'll be his first target if he follows through. Shouldn't we have a plan?

Active Shooter/ Shelter in Place

An Emergency notification was sent to my cell phone. A truck carrying toxic chemicals has overturned not far from the house. I'm following instructions to shelter in place. A very strong and noxious odor is coming from the bathroom. It's awful. I feel sick. What am I supposed to do? It is not safe to open windows?
