Before You Begin

Know Your Purpose:

-If it is to encourage empathy towards and understanding of others, ask players to assume the point of view stated on the card even if (especially if) it is not their own. It's a chance to walk in the shoes of another and discover how you might respond were you faced with the challenge.

-If your goal is to teach others to coach individuals in crisis, you may want to approach the exercise differently. Have participants select Skills & Attitudes that they might suggest for use by the individual in crisis.

-If your mission is crisis prevention, try applying the Skills & Attitudes to the challenges in a proactive manner to see how situations might be preventable.

Such groups might be: healthcare providers and their patients, police officers and immigrants or baby boomers and millennials. Using healthcare for example, bring providers and patients together. Have the providers select challenges from the Healthcare Dilemma deck and patients draw from the Healthcare Professional deck. Have the group pair off (i.e. one healthcare provider and one patient). The pairs are charged with coaching one another to face challenges that may be unfamiliar to them. It is helpful to ask that they assume the point of view on the card in order to encourage empathy and understanding.

Once you know your Purpose and your Participants...begin.

BounceBack is a serious game, a tool that may help build mental toughness by asking people to respond to real world challenges using the Skills & Attitudes of resilience.

The goal is to bring people together to share thoughts and perspectives on how to respond to the many challenges life puts forth. We offer some coaching and game play suggestions, but how you choose to use these cards is really up to you.

Know your Participants:

-Are you coaching an individual in transition? Is the transition specific to a particular issue such as Divorce/Finance or Disability? Select and use those decks that best relate to the transition/s being experienced.

-Are the participants looking to build a broader sense of resilience Skills & Attitudes that relate to their particular vocation? Select from our bundles or choose individual decks that relate best to the needs of the group you are working with.

-Do you have populations that could build resilience through a better understanding of the challenges faced by each?

The Basic Concept:

You're presented with a Challenge Card. Spread the ten Skills & Attitudes cards out so that they can be seen. Read the challenge on the face of your card. Using the ten cards in front of you, select the cards having the Skills & Attitudes you wish to apply in order to manage the challenge at hand. Turn over your Challenge card to see the Skills & Attitudes (indicated by a red* asterisk) that we suggest might be most helpful in managing the situation. Repeat this process, in turn, for each participant. And please, don't forget the discussion. Adapt this basic concept as you will to fit the needs of you and/or your participants.

BounceBack was developed as a tool to practice responding to life's challenges. Challenges are presented and the user chooses skills and attitudes that he or she wishes to apply in order to respond to that challenge. It's very simple. It's practice. With >36 decks and >720 challenge questions, it's a lot of practice.

-13.5% was the poverty rate in the U.S. in 2015. Those who live in poverty face daily challenges that those of us with more resources don't. These are the challenges of those who have little. Indeed, it is a very different world if you're poor in America.

-We created this deck to start conversations between friends and neighbors who know these challenges and to enlighten those who don't. It is hard to have conversations about subjects when judgement and shame are present.

-This deck can be used with your family to build Skills & Attitudes of resilience. Share in small groups and learn from one another. Use it in schools to combat the shame and judgement directed to those who have little. New and seasoned human/social service professionals could also benefit from a clearer understanding of those they serve

I want my kids to have it better than me. I want this miserable cycle to stop. They are almost teenagers and have already decided that there's no way out. That they are destined to live in poverty. It breaks my heart. I can't make them believe that there is more to strive for when there is nothing to support that belief.

The 13.5%

Another Christmas. The kids will have something. The charities always come through. I appreciate what they do and what they provide. But I hate having to explain on Christmas morning that, somehow, Santa got it wrong. I wish I could afford to buy them something myself.

The 13.5%

Public housing is not all it's cracked up to be. I have new neighbors and it seems that they had some cockroaches that moved in with them. I reported the problem three times to the management company and nothing has been done. I have a phobia about bugs and have been cleaning obsessively and leaving my lights on 24/7 to keep them at bay. I can't keep this up.
